

Star Football Player At Georgetown Is Candidate For President of Law Class

JOHN MAHLUM MAY BE HEAD OF LAW CLASS AT HILLTOP

Star Forward of Georgetown Stands High in Studies as Well as on Field of Football Endeavor.

Gridironer Holds Admiration of Coach Exendine, Manager Cox, and of All Members of Hilltop Faculty.

One Big Pass

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Judge Mathewson today asked Manager Carrington, of the Yale eleven, for permission for the boys' clubs of this city to see the Yale-Brown game on Saturday. Manager Carrington wrote out the following order: "Pass the Judge and 6,000 kids." This is believed to be the biggest pass written since Noah passed into the ark with his companions.

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER. John Mahlum, varsity left guard at Georgetown, is a candidate for the senior class presidency in the law school. The election is to be held tonight, and he is expected to be chosen to head his class.

Besides being the best forward in the Georgetown line Mahlum stands high in his class. As a student, he is one of the best ever attending Georgetown. The professors and instructors of the law school are all his admirers, and are with him in his candidacy.

"Mahlum is one of the best football players I have ever seen," said Coach Albert A. Exendine today. "He has all the finish of a varsity player, with the heart of a lion. He is never downcast over a game, but always willing to do after the other fellow. He is an honor to Georgetown, a fine chap in every way."

"Mahlum is a fine fellow," said Charles R. Cox, graduate manager of athletics at Georgetown. "Though he had a broken hand, he insisted on taking his place in the line. For courage, he has never been beaten at Georgetown. He should be one of Georgetown's captains for all-South Atlantic honors this season."

Mahlum made the varsity eleven last year, playing the line game against all opponents. Though opposed by Francis Green, who had already made his mark at Lehigh, he succeeded in convincing Coach Exendine that he was equal to the task of playing guard with Captain Barron on the varsity team at the Hilltop. He played great football against Princeton, Navy, Army, and Georgetown in the toughest contests given the Blue and Gray. His personality has rallied to his assistance many law school seniors who are going out tonight to vote for him, making him president of his class.

Catholic University will be without a football game for tomorrow unless Manager Kavanaugh succeeds in landing the Regina Mercedes eleven, of Annapolis, for a practice contest. The Mercedes eleven has been the punching bag of the Washington teams this season, taking a wallop from Georgetown and the Vigilants, and will hardly want to come over here for a game.

St. Mary's will be dropped from the C. U. schedule as this is the second year in succession that the Marylanders have canceled. Catholic University is expected to be played next Saturday at Allentown, Pa.

With Georgetown and C. U. without games, Washington has only the Maryland Aggies-Washington college game to see in College Park, Md. The Aggies are overwhelming favorites.

Gallaudet will play the North Carolina Aggies tomorrow and Coach Wayne Hart hopes only to make a good showing against Jack Hoggarty's team, which defeated the Navy last week.

Coach Exendine today excused the Georgetown varsity squad until Monday, he feels that the committee schedule has taken a lot of "pep" out of the team and that a good rest will do the squad more good than anything else.

Charles R. Cox, graduate manager, and Coach Exendine will go to Princeton tomorrow to see what Harvard does to the Tigers.

Tomorrow the Georgetown freshmen will battle the sophomore at the Hilltop, the game starting at 3 o'clock. This game is an annual attraction at Georgetown and should be fought to a finish.

Dartmouth Takes Tale Of Trouble With Salt

Coach Cavanaugh Says That Penn's Ineligibles Have Failed to Play Good Game—Also Calls Bell Best Quarterback in Red and Blue Squad.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Dartmouth will own the Hub tonight and tomorrow night. Not for three years has the Hanover eleven been seen in this city, and tomorrow's game at Fenway Park with Pennsylvania will bring down every student from the little New Hampshire town. The advance guard is due to arrive at the North station this afternoon, the bulk of the host arriving tomorrow morning. The Dartmouth authorities have decreed tomorrow a holiday in Hanover, and it is doubtful if one student will be left at home when the whistle blows for the kick-off. The announcement of the general shake-up at Penn in which four men were declared ineligible and the captain relegated to the second team, is being taken with a grain of salt in Hanover. When interviewed on this subject, Frank Cavanaugh, the head coach, said: "The Dartmouth team will not be one bit misled by the story of the sudden collapse of the Penn football team. This is an old trick of the game, and often worked before. We are all aware of the fact that Penn has an extraordinary amount of wonderful material, while admitting the ability of Stack, Welch, and Grant, the three newly declared ineligible, the fact forces itself upon us that apparently they have not been playing up to the standard set by the coaches for the first string, as none of these three men have taken an important part in the last two games. So far as the strength of the Penn team is concerned, we are taking nothing for granted. The only real thing of consequence that has happened has been the relegating of the Penn captain to the second team. We are at a loss to see why this should hurt the team, if a better man has been found to take his place. So far as Penn's quarterback is concerned, those who saw the Penn game last Saturday unquestionably state that Bell was by far their best quarterback. We are expecting a hard game, and have made preparations to meet Penn along these lines."

The line-up for tomorrow follows: Left end, Dussanoff; left tackle, Fishback; left guard, Merrill; center, Barker; right guard, Sperry; right tackle, Cotton; right end, Emery; quarterback, Whithorn; fullback, left halfback, Gerlach; fullback, Thielcher, and right halfback, Tyler.

The Pennsylvania varsity squad today practices at Fenway Park. It is a gloomy band of warriors, recent disappointments having hit the team hard. There is bitter feeling among the Quakers over the resignation of Howard Herry, as it is only one quarter back, Bell, knows the signals. If Bell is injured a scrub quarterback will have to be used.

The Penn cheering section will arrive here tomorrow morning.

LAMBERTON CHOSEN INSTEAD OF BROWN

Otherwise, Princeton Will Face Harvard Tomorrow With Same Team of Week Ago.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5.—Practically the same eleven that showed to such good advantage over Dartmouth two weeks ago will face Harvard here tomorrow. The only change will be Lambertson at end, instead of Brown. Lambertson's work this week has been a revelation to the coaches.

Old grads began to drift back to Princeton today, and the campus and village already is taking on a gala appearance. Harvard grads are also sprinkled through the crowds, awaiting the arrival of Captain Mahan and his cohorts tomorrow morning. A large number will come down from New York. A cold drizzling rain drove the Tigers to cover yesterday, and the latter part of the practice was held in the baseball cage. There was no scrimmage and Rush took no chances of getting any of his men injured.

In the baseball cage the second team was sent against the varsity in all the known Harvard formations, and where he should be on every play. The plays were run slowly and even body checking was barred.

It has not yet been decided whether Halley will start at right tackle against Harvard. He is not in perfect condition, and in case Keane Fitzpatrick the trainer, decides to keep him out, Partridge will have the next job. The line-up that has the preference for the Harvard game is: Highley, left end; McLean, left tackle; Nourse, left guard; Bennett, center; Hoge, right guard; Halley, right tackle; Lambertson, right end; Glick, quarterback; Shea, left halfback; Tibbitt, right halfback; Briggs, fullback.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—Though it is admitted that Harvard's record is not as good as last year's, nevertheless it is felt here that the team will be able to stop Princeton's attack tomorrow, and Captain Mahan may be able to win by field goals.

The football squad left today for New York, and will go down to the tugle early tomorrow morning. Watson will surely start at quarterback, with Hoge's playing right halfback instead of Enwright.

Columbia Is Undecided About George Brickley

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Columbia is apparently as far as ever from a definite stand as to whether it will or will not meet Trinity on the gridiron on November 12. After a session that lasted for hours, the university committee on athletics adjourned early yesterday morning without reaching a stand either way. Another meeting will be called on Monday, November 8, in an effort to reach a decision. So far there has been no communication with the Trinity officials.

The members of the committee were silent when seen yesterday, and Charles Husted Maps, chairman, referred all inquiries to Harry A. Fisher, graduate manager of athletics. Fisher's bare announcement was that the committee would have nothing to announce until next Tuesday.

TOM SHEVLIN GETS RESULTS WITH TEAM

Yale Varsity Tears Its Way Up and Down Field Against Strong Freshmen.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—Tom Shevlin's "tear 'em up" style of coaching is having its results. Yale's varsity eleven has gotten together better than at any time this year and hopes are entertained that a victory over Brown will follow.

In yesterday's scrimmage against the freshmen the varsity hammered their way up and down the field, the youngsters being wholly unable to stop them. Capt. Alec Willson made the final dash which carried the ball over the line. Tom Shevlin stood behind the regular all the way, and drove them along at a rapid pace, criticizing and praising according as gains or losses resulted. On the defensive the varsity did not make such a satisfactory showing, although the freshmen were unable to gain consistently when they had possession of the ball.

The same line-up was used as on Wednesday, with the exception that Wiedeman played at right end throughout the practice. Wednesday Church alternated with him at that position. Wiedeman is developing into a really capable end. He has plenty of speed, despite his 185 pounds, and is one of the hardest tacklers on the squad. Ringham's work at halfback was fairly satisfactory to the coaches, as was Van Nostrand's generalship at quarterback. The latter weighs 185 pounds, but has so much aggressiveness that it is hard to stop him.

Among the arrivals at the bowl were Ralph Bloomer, '94, who played at tackle when he was in college. He is a close friend of Tom Shevlin. Carroll Knowles, one of the backfield veterans on last season's team, also returned to watch the practice. All of the coaches who were on hand yesterday appeared at the field again today, and helped with the work. Things are going smoothly in the Yale camp, and every one is doing his part to turn out a championship team.

No Peace For Barrow, International Leader

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Edward G. Barrow, president of the International League, was today on his way to San Francisco to attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Baseball Clubs. Before leaving Mr. Barrow said:

"The Federal League cannot use the International League for a foil in its fight for peace. There will be no merger of interest between my league and the others. I am sure the American Association feels the same way. The Class AA leagues are the only ones who co-operation could be of benefit to the independent, and those feel that their interests will be best served through unshakable loyalty to the organization of which they are now a most important part."

All Three Pros.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—It became known today that the charges against Billy Stack, Ray Grant and Vince Welch, the three Penn football players, is professionalism and that they were declared ineligible for this and not for scholastic work.

Prof. Goodspeed, chairman of the faculty committee, made the announcement that the lads were all right in their scholastic work.

Wharton Sinkler, chairman of the football committee, when questioned would not deny the charges, but said he would leave it up to the players to make any announcement necessary.

Wharton Will Resign as Coach of Penn Forwards

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—To cap the climax of the many exciting incidents which have been happening around Franklin Field these last few days was the announcement made by Dr. Buck Wharton yesterday afternoon before he left for Boston, to the effect that this would be his last year as one of the coaches at Old Penn. The reason for Dr. Wharton's decision is that his private duties have become too pressing, and that, although he has enjoyed being with the boys this fall, he must not let his coaching interfere with his work.

When asked as to whether there had been any discussion at the coaches' meeting on Wednesday night, he stated that there had been none, and he did not expect that there would be any. He said: "I have been too busy teaching my line men the game to pay any attention to any one else's affairs, and I believe that my boys are as good forwards as any team in the country today. Every man is a fighter, and each one has had a square deal. If any man is better than another, that man gets the job, and there is no disputing the matter."
